

---

This particular work is a result of four weeks of collaboration in writing, composing, acting, directing, singing, instrumental playing, singing and most importantly story telling. It's an opportunity to explore new theatre, seeking potential in the most exciting, bold and unique material that is created to this particular group of students. The material is generated, not from a given stimulus, but from their own experiences as human beings and the material is originated, created and directed by the student cast during the process. As a group we have written over 20 songs, countless monologues and