Alebachew Kemisso Haybano has a Ph.D. in International and Comparative Education, and currently, he is an associate professor at the Department of Curriculum and Comparative Education at Addis Ababa University (AAU). His research and publications mainly focus on how national education systems deal with issues of inclusion and identity development of refugee children and children in emergencies. He has produced research reports in academic settings, with NGOs, INGOs, and consulting firms on a range of issues related to the right to education, reforms in education, development partnerships in TVET, doctoral education, and others. He was the Director of the Center for Comparative Education and Policy Studies. He was also a principal investigator and project coordinator for the Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (SIDA) supported research training partnership in the International and Comparative Education doctoral program. He was a postdoctoral fellow at Harvard University. Currently, he is the Vice President for Academic Affairs at Kotebe University of Education in Ethiopia.
